Thanking America’s Troops and Their Families with the Gifts of Education and Pathways to Meaningful Employment

Happy Father’s Day at ThanksUSA! We wrapped up our summer by answering calls from hundreds of donors who want to support our troops. We have been welcoming students from military families to start their year with a little extra support and gratitude.

As we all know, the struggle to pay for education can be real, and our military spouses and kids often face it up close. Thanks for using your imagination for shared support for our troops and their families in this way.

We look forward to sharing more about the individuals that make up this amazing group of scholars!
